Public Entry Banned at Gauri Gundala Waterfalls Due to Heavy Inflow

(Capital Information)

Peddapalli Bureau : Following persistent heavy downpours over the past two days, the Gauri Gundala waterfall—located in Gattusingaram, a hamlet of Sabbitam village in Peddapalli Mandal—is overflowing at record levels. In interest of public safety, local authorities have announced a temporary ban on tourist visits to the site.

To enforce the prohibition and restrict traffic, officials erected hazard warning signs and temporary barricades along the main access road leading to the waterfall. Authorities strongly advised tourists and local residents to avoid visiting the flooded waterfall area and requested full cooperation with the police and Gram Panchayat personnel deployed on site.

Citing the high risk of flash surges and fatal accidents during peak monsoon flow, officials urged the public to stay vigilant and refrain from venturing near water bodies.

Local Sarpanch Nune Sarojana Ramesh, Panchayat Secretary MD Afzal Pasha, GPO Shravan, MGNREGA Field Assistant Indla Ramesh, and Police Head Constable Anand were present during the inspection and barricading drive.

Port expansion pipeline targets over 700 MTPA of Additional Capacity by 2030

India is accelerating investments across ports, inland waterways and shipbuilding as the Ministry of Ports, Shipping and Waterways (MoPSW) advances its roadmap towards Viksit Bharat 2047, with a sharp focus on capacity creation, private investment, digitisation and maritime manufacturing.

Chairing a high-level review of the Ministry's Viksit Bharat targets, Union Minister for Ports, Shipping & Waterways Sarbananda Sonowal directed officials to accelerate implementation of flagship projects while maintaining strict adherence to timelines. Sonowal urged officials across the Ministry, major ports and the Inland Waterways Authority of India (IWAI) to work with a unified approach to achieve India's long-term maritime ambitions.

The review comes as the Ministry reports significant progress across multiple performance indicators. India has consolidated its position as the world's largest ship recycling nation, while inland waterways cargo has already crossed 200 million tonnes, achieving the Maritime India Vision (MIV) 2030 target several years ahead of schedule.

"These achievements demonstrate what India can accomplish when policy, execution and teamwork move together. Under the visionary leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the maritime sector has emerged as one of the strongest pillars of India's economic transformation. We must continue to work with the same sense of purpose, uphold the Prime Minister's mantra of 'Speed and Scale', and ensure that every milestone under 'Viksit Bharat 2047' is delivered on time," Sarbananda Sonowal said.

The Minister also called on officials to strengthen institutional resilience by incorporating lessons from global disruptions into future planning."The evolving geopolitical situation has shown that resilience is as important as growth. Every challenge offers an opportunity to build stronger systems, enhance capacity and prepare India for the future. Our planning must anticipate global uncertainties while keeping India's growth trajectory firmly on course," Sonowal said.

The Ministry is pursuing one of the country's largest maritime infrastructure expansion programmes, targeting more than 700 million tonnes per annum (MTPA) of additional port capacity by 2030. Among the flagship projects are the Vadhavan Port, which will add 164 MTPA of capacity by 2030-31, the Tuticorin Outer Harbour project with 39 MTPA, and the Kandla Tuna Tekra Terminal, expected to contribute 33 MTPA by 2027-28.

Overall, the Ministry plans to create an additional 682 MTPA of capacity by 2030 through a combination of new infrastructure, mechanisation and private investment. This includes 306 MTPA at major ports, 193 MTPA at key non-major ports and another 183 MTPA through mechanisation, operational efficiency improvements, public-private partnerships and capacity augmentation at emerging non-major ports.

The Ministry aims to increase cargo handling mechanisation across ports from 76% in FY 2025-26 to 93% by 2030, significantly improving operational efficiency and reducing turnaround time. Private sector participation is also expected to expand substantially. Cargo handled through public-private partnership (PPP) projects is projected to rise from 44% in 2013-14 to 85% by 2030-31, reflecting the Government's continued emphasis on private capital and operational expertise in port development. The Ministry has also set a target of achieving 100% digitisation across the maritime sector by 2030, with integrated digital platforms expected to improve logistics efficiency, transparency and service delivery.

India's shipbuilding sector also recorded strong momentum during the review period. Domestic shipbuilding output increased 41%, rising from 40,923 gross tonnes (GT) in 2024 to 57,637 GT in 2025. To support long-term manufacturing growth, the Government has granted in-principle approvals for greenfield shipbuilding clusters in Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and Gujarat, each with a planned capacity of 1.2 million GT. Similar approvals for Maharashtra and Odisha are expected by August-September 2026.

The Union Minister underlined the Ministry's roadmap under Viksit Bharat 2047 to position India among the world's leading maritime economies by strengthening infrastructure, expanding logistics capacity, boosting domestic manufacturing and enhancing global competitiveness.

Vijayawada : "Human trafficking is no longer a crime confined to borders or physical spaces. It has entered our homes through mobile phones, social media platforms, fake job advertisements, and deceptive online networks. Criminal syndicates are targeting the dreams of our children, the aspirations of our youth, and the trust of families. Every citizen must remain vigilant. Saving a child or a young person from human trafficking means saving a life, protecting a family, and securing a future," said Vetukuri A.V.S. Suryanarayana Raju, Chairperson of the Andhra Pradesh State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (APSCPCR).

He was speaking as the Chief Guest at an awareness programme organized jointly by the Andhra Pradesh State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (APSCPCR) and HELP (Society for Help Entire Lower & Rural People) at the Press Club, Vijayawada, on the occasion of the World Day Against Trafficking in Persons.

On the occasion, the APSCPCR and HELP jointly unveiled a series of awareness wall posters on human trafficking. The posters were formally released by APSCPCR Chairperson Vetukuri A.V.S. Suryanarayana Raju, Commission Members, and Nimmaraju Ramamohan, Secretary of HELP.

Addressing the gathering, the Chairperson observed that the nature of human trafficking has undergone a dramatic transformation. What was once carried out through direct recruitment has now evolved into a technology-driven crime involving fake job advertisements, promises of lucrative salaries, social media connections, online romance scams, and fraudulent overseas employment offers. He emphasized that digital literacy and cyber safety awareness have become essential tools in preventing trafficking in the digital era.

He reaffirmed that the Andhra Pradesh State Commission for Protection of Child Rights is fully committed to ensuring that every child in the State enjoys the rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India. Towards this objective, the Commission has been conducting continuous monitoring, awareness campaigns, and child protection initiatives across Andhra Pradesh.

The Chairperson further stated that through the "Bala

Samvad" programme, the Commission is engaging directly with children to understand their concerns while strengthening child protection systems at the district and village levels. He added that the Commission is actively monitoring the implementation of child welfare schemes and undertaking focused interventions to prevent child trafficking, child labour, child marriage, and sexual offences against children.

He noted that the Commission is working in close coordination with Government Departments, the Police Department, Child Welfare Committees (CWCs), Juvenile Justice Boards (JJBs), District Child Protection Units (DCPUs), educational institutions, and civil society organizations to ensure that every child enjoys a safe, secure, and dignified childhood.

Speaking on the occasion, Nimmaraju Ramamohan, Secretary of HELP, referred to the recent incident in which several youth from Andhra Pradesh were lured with promises of employment in Singapore but were instead trafficked to Myanmar and forced to work in cyber scam operations. He stated that the incident was not merely a case of cybercrime but a stark example of how international human trafficking syndicates exploit the hopes and aspirations of innocent young people.

"A journey that began with dreams of a better future ultimately ended in fear, exploitation, and modern-day slavery. This incident should serve as a wake-up call for every family, every educational institution, and every young person," he said. World's Tallest Shiva Lingam Draws Pilgrims to Kerala's Maheswaram Temple

(Capital Information)

Thiruvananthapuram : The Maheswaram Sri Sivaparvathi Temple at Chenkal, near Neyyattinkara in Kerala's Thiruvananthapuram district, has emerged as a major spiritual and architectural landmark with the world's tallest Shiva Lingam, standing at an impressive 111 feet 2 inches (33.87 metres).

Located about 26 kilometres from Thiruvananthapuram city, the temple's monumental Shiva Lingam has been recognised by the India Book of Records and the Asia Book of Records, surpassing the previous record held by the 108-foot lingam at Karnataka's Kotilingeshwara Temple.

The towering Mahalingam, whose construction began in 2012 and was completed after nearly six years, is more than a monumental structure. Designed according to the principles of Shadadhara, it represents the six energy centres of the human body and offers devotees a symbolic spiritual journey through seven levels culminating in Kailasam.

Unlike conventional temple structures, devotees can enter the hollow Mahalingam through a prayer hall where they are permitted to perform abhishekam on a Shiva Lingam. A spiral pathway designed to resemble Himalayan caves leads visitors upward through meditation halls dedicated to the chakras. The interior houses 108 Shiva Lingams, 64 manifestations of Lord Shiva, and a replica of Mount Kailash featuring idols of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati beneath a thousand-petalled lotus. Sacred soil, sand and water collected from revered pilgrimage centres including Kashi, Gangotri, Rishikesh, Rameswaram, Badrinath, Gomukh and Kailash have also been incorporated into the structure.

Built in traditional Kerala architectural style using krishnashila, wood and copper, the temple complex reflects classical craftsmanship and Vastu principles. The sanctum enshrines a full-bodied panchaloha idol of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati seated together, symbolising the eternal union of Purusha and Prakriti.

The temple is also notable for housing representations of all 12 Jyotirlingas surrounding the sanctum, along with 32 forms of Lord Ganesha, shrines dedicated to Lord Kartikeya, intricately carved gopurams, kodimaram, Navagraha wood carvings, Gajavyali sculptures and other traditional architectural elements.

According to temple tradition, the site has a history spanning nearly 5,000 years. A Devaprashnam is said to have revealed that an ancient temple once existed here before being destroyed in a natural calamity. The present temple was revived under the guidance of Swamy Maheswarananda Saraswathi, whose spiritual experiences at the site eventually led to the establishment of the shrine and the continuation of daily rituals that begin at 4 a.m.

The temple observes major festivals including Mahashivaratri, celebrated with Lakshadeepam, processions and cultural programmes, besides Maharudra and Athirudra Maha Yajnam, Vidyarambham, Pradosham and Karthika Deepam. Temple authorities said the institution also undertakes various social welfare activities such as educational support, medical assistance, community marriages, distribution of food and clothing to the underprivileged, and regular cultural and spiritual classes.

Open to devotees irrespective of caste, creed or religion, the Maheswaram Sri Sivaparvathi Temple has steadily gained prominence as one of South India's emerging pilgrimage destinations, offering visitors a rare blend of spirituality, traditional temple architecture and record-breaking engineering.

Clearing the Air on Aadhaar and Age Determination

(Capital Information)

Hyderabad : The Chhattisgarh High Court's verdict reiterates the vital distinction between an identity document and a proof of age. By ruling that Aadhaar cannot be treated as a conclusive document for determining age in motor accident compensation claims, the court has provided much-needed legal clarity.

In India, the Aadhaar card has become deeply embedded in daily life. From opening bank accounts to availing government welfare schemes, Aadhaar is used as the primary document everywhere. However, citizens and institutions must recognize that Aadhaar is primarily a Proof of Identity and Address—not a absolute statutory proof of birth date.

What Constitutes Authentic Proof of Age?

As highlighted by Justice Sanjay K. Agrawal's bench, official Birth Certificates issued by municipal authorities or verified School Records (Matriculation Certificates) remain the most trustworthy documents for verifying age. During Aadhaar enrollment, dates of birth are sometimes entered based on self-declarations or rough estimates without supporting documents. Therefore, relying on Aadhaar for legal compensation claims—where exact age determines crucial financial multipliers—could lead to injustice for either the claimants or the insurance providers.

Insurance Liabilities: A Matter of Timing

Another pivotal aspect of this judgment is the clarification regarding insurance liability. The court unambiguously held that an insurance company's liability does not begin the moment a premium is received, but strictly from the date and time stipulated in the policy document. This serves as a vital reminder to vehicle owners and policyholders who often assume they are covered immediately upon transferring the premium amount.

A Needed Shift in Public Practice

Although the Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) has repeatedly stated that Aadhaar is not a proof of date of birth, many public and private organizations continue to accept it as such. This judgment from the Chhattisgarh High Court should serve as a wake-up call to curb this practice across official procedures. Ultimately, it reminds every citizen of the critical importance of preserving primary birth certificates and educational records for all legal requirements.

The MLA presided over the Mandal General Body meeting held on Thursday at the Gopalpet Mandal Parishad office and reviewed the performance of various departments.

Expressing strong displeasure over the absence of certain officials, he ordered the MPDO to issue immediate memos to them. He emphasized that General Body meetings serve as crucial platforms for resolving public grievances and made it clear that strict action would be taken against officials who neglect them.

Immediate Action Needed Against Substandard Electrical Works in Makthal: BJP Secretary Battery Raju

(Capital Information)

Makthal : BJP Makthal Town Secretary Battery Raju has urged the government to take immediate action against the contractor responsible for carrying out allegedly substandard and negligent electrical works in Makthal town.

In a statement released on Thursday, he said that the contractor's negligence in executing electrical works has caused severe inconvenience and safety concerns for both the public and farmers. He alleged that despite farmers paying Agricultural Demand Drafts (DDs) months ago, the installation of transformers and electricity poles has been unnecessarily delayed due to the negligence of both the contractor and the concerned officials.

Battery Raju stated that the condition of three recently constructed transformer structures in the town is highly dangerous. He pointed out that a newly built transformer platform in Basaveshwara Colony collapsed completely within just one or two months of construction, causing the transformer to fall.

As a result, a short circuit disrupted the electricity supply to the entire colony.He further said that the transformer structure constructed near the new Government Hospital has already developed visible cracks.

According to local residents, the structure may collapse if one or two more spells of rain occur, posing a serious threat to public safety.He also alleged that the transformer structure built behind Chakkera Hanumappa Temple in Vinayak Nagar has not yet been energized, but cracks have already appeared even before an electrical connection was provided. He described this as clear evidence of poor-quality construction and warned that energizing the transformer under such conditions could lead to a major accident.

Battery Raju demanded that the authorities immediately dismantle the defective transformer structures in all three locations and reconstruct them using quality materials. He also urged the electricity department to complete the pending installation of transformers and electricity poles for farmers who have already paid their Agricultural DDs.

He called upon the District Collector and senior officials of the Electricity Department to conduct a comprehensive inquiry into the contractor's work and take legal action against those found responsible. He further demanded the immediate removal of the existing electrical contractor, alleging that the contractor's poor workmanship is endangering public lives, and requested the government to appoint a new contractor capable of delivering quality work.

Voter Revision Keeps Officials Busy, Illegal Constructions Gain Momentum..!

Unauthorised Buildings Allegedly Rising in Indresham Municipality

(Capital Information)

Sangareddy/Patancheru : The ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls has placed additional responsibilities on municipal officials, but it has also allegedly created an opportunity for illegal constructions to flourish in Indresham Municipality. Residents allege that municipal authorities have been largely occupied with SIR-related duties over the past two months, resulting in reduced monitoring of unauthorised construction activities.

Taking advantage of the situation, several builders are reportedly carrying out construction in violation of approved plans, while others are allegedly erecting large structures without obtaining any permissions.Locals have expressed concern that despite blatant violations of municipal regulations, there appears to be little enforcement to stop such activities.

They claim that when officials are questioned about the issue, the common response is that they are fully engaged in the SIR process. Residents, however, argue that addressing public grievances and preventing illegal constructions remain core responsibilities of the municipal administration.

They are now questioning whether authorities will launch a crackdown on unauthorised buildings once the SIR exercise is completed, identify and seal illegal structures, or overlook the violations that have taken place during this period.The situation has also raised concerns over whether the increase in illegal constructions is a result of official negligence or whether reduced monitoring under the pretext of SIR has allowed such violations to continue unchecked.

Locals are demanding answers from higher authorities regarding the status of the municipal enforcement staff, the number of illegal constructions identified so far, and the action taken against violators. Whether the authorities will act decisively against illegal constructions or allow further violations under the cover of the SIR process has now become a major topic of public discussion.

This awareness campaign aligns with the vision articulated by the Hon'ble Chief Minister Revanth Reddy, under Telangana Rising 2047, which affirms that bonded labour and modern-day slavery have no place in Telangana's future. The initiative seeks to strengthen prevention, increase public confidence in government systems and encourage workers facing exploitation to seek timely assistance.

With over 700 participants, the conference opened with welcome remarks, followed by addresses from distinguished guests who underscored the importance of sustained collaboration, effective implementation of the BLSA Act, and survivor-centred approaches to prevention, rescue, rehabilitation, and access to justice. Speakers highlighted the critical role of partnerships between government institutions, academia, and civil society in addressing bonded labour across Telangana.

Ch Panchakshari shared, 'Even after 50 years of the BLSA Act, bonded labour continues to exist, which is a matter of grave concern. Human trafficking and bonded labour are not merely legal issues but issues of human dignity, social justice and constitutional values.

Eradication of bonded labour requires coordinated efforts from the Police, Revenue, Labour, Women & Child Welfare Departments and civil society organisations. The Telangana State Legal Services Authority (TSLSA) is conducting legal awareness campaigns across villages and has deployed mobile legal awareness vans screening short films to educate rural communities on bonded labour and other legal rights.'

'The way forward begins with reporting, followed by rescue, release, and rehabilitation.

District Vigilance Committees must become more active and effective. Rescue without sustainable livelihoods will push survivors back into exploitation. Rehabilitation must continue beyond rescue. District Vigilance Committees, lawyers, teachers, civil society organisations, civil servants, Panchayati Raj institutions, the SLSA, and every stakeholder must work together,' shared Krishna Deva Rao, highlighting the need for coordinated action. 'In her address, Smt. Merlin Freeda, National Programme Director, IJM, shared: 'Fifty years ago, India made a landmark commitment through the BLSA Act. It declared that no person's freedom can be bought, sold, inherited, or controlled through debt. That law affirmed a simple but powerful truth: every worker has the right to live and work in freedom, with dignity, and in safety. And yet, even today, we see vulnerable workers being exploited in different places. They are in rock quarries, brick kilns, rice mills, and several other workplaces. That's why, today is the beginning of a broader movement, a movement to transform awareness into action, and to convert commitment into sustained collective effort.'

A key highlight of the event was the launch of the 'Bonded Labour Awareness Song', which was performed by Singer-Songwriter and Advisory Committee Member, Cultural and Tourism, Government of Telangana, Palle Narasimha. The song was developed to increase public awareness about bonded labour and encourage communities to recognise and report cases of exploitation. It calls on citizens to report suspected cases of bonded labour to the Labour Department's helpline so that victims can be rescued and rehabilitated.

The conference also featured the launch of a booklet commemorating '50 years of the BLSA Act' and a poster showcasing the bonded labour toll-free helpline number, which will be used across all government offices.

At the heart of the conference were the voices of survivors, who shared their lived experiences of exploitation, rescue, recovery, and resilience. Their testimonies served as powerful reminders of both the devastating impact of bonded labour and the transformative outcomes that are possible through timely intervention and long-term support.

Panchayat President of Amaragiri and bonded labour survivor, P Lingamma reflected on her past bondage and her present circumstances, sharing her optimistic view of a hopeful future: 'In my life, wherever I find people still suffering under bonded labour, or facing hardship or injustice, I will stand with them. The officers have supported us, and I too will support the poor. Whatever difficulty or challenge comes, I am ready to face it. I have the courage to rescue people from bonded labour and help them become free.'

The event also featured a drama performance by Gajuwelli Pratap Cultural Group depicting the realities of bonded labour and the journey from exploitation to freedom. Through storytelling and performance, the production highlighted the human cost of bonded labour while reinforcing the importance of collective action to prevent exploitation and support survivors.

The state conference was a renewed commitment from participating stakeholders to continue working together to strengthen systems, raise public awareness, and advance efforts towards a future free from bonded labour. The event reaffirmed that ending bonded labour requires coordinated action across institutions, communities, and society, through dialogue, survivor leadership, and creative public engagement.
