

KTR vows to fight attempts to privatise Singareni

(Capital Information)
Hyderabad : BRS working president KT Rama Rao vowed to fight attempts to privatise Singareni Collieries Company Limited (SCCL) and protect the rights and welfare of its workers. In this regard, he asked party leaders to question the Congress government, press for a probe into alleged irregularities in the company's affairs and oppose decisions that could undermine its interests.

KTR was addressing a meeting with BRS MLAs, former MLAs, senior leaders from the Singareni region and Telangana Boggu Ghani Karmika Sangham (TBGKS) representatives at Telangana Bhavan on Thursday. The meeting reviewed the company's present situation, workers' issues, its future and measures to strengthen the party-affiliated trade union following the successful Singareni Karmika Garjana public meeting held at Godavarikhani recently.

The meeting resolved to coordinate efforts to protect Singareni, safeguard workers' rights, revive welfare measures and strengthen TBGKS. BRS leaders said they would continue to hold both the Congress and BJP governments accountable for their policies towards the company and its workforce.

Congratulating leaders, workers and union representatives for making the Godavarikhani meeting a success at short notice, Rama Rao called for a coordinated campaign to take the issues raised there to the public. He asked party leaders to question alleged irregularities in tenders, declining coal production, Singareni's financial affairs and funds due to the company.

He said the BRS should question both the Congress government in Telangana and the BJP-led government at the Centre over their indifference towards Singareni.

The BRS working president called for an extensive campaign on the welfare measures implemented for Singareni workers during the previous BRS government. These included profit-sharing, dependent employment, medical facilities and welfare programmes for workers' families.

He asked party leaders to compare the previous government's initiatives with the current situation and raise concerns over workers' profit shares, bonuses and other benefits if the government failed to ensure their timely delivery. The party should remain accessible to workers and pursue their demands at the grassroots level, he said.

The meeting also discussed preparations for the forthcoming trade union elections. KTR asked party and TBGKS leaders and workers to strengthen the organisation in the Singareni belt and mobilise support around workers' issues.

Party leaders said Singareni workers and people in the region were increasingly recalling the welfare initiatives undertaken during the BRS regime amid problems under the Congress government.

Prioritize Alternative Crops Facing Dry Spell: Kamareddy Collector Ashish Sangwan Urges Efficient Water Use

(Capital Information)
Nizamabad Bureau : Emphasizing the need for proactive planning amid declining rainfall driven by the El Nino effect, Kamareddy District Collector Ashish Sangwan urged farmers to adopt alternative crops suited to available water resources. Participating alongside district agriculture officials in a video conference led by Telangana Agriculture Minister Tummalala Nageswara Rao at the Rythu Vedika in Dharmaraopet village of Sadashivanagar mandal, the Collector highlighted key measures required to support the farming community.

During the meeting, the Minister issued directives to create awareness regarding agricultural sales, cotton marketing, and Minimum Support Prices (MSP), while ensuring official guidelines reach farmers promptly. Speaking at the subsequent Rythu Nestham and Khet Bachao Abhiyaan programs, Collector Sangwan noted that ground water levels in the district had depleted by four to five meters compared to last year, resulting in dry conditions across mandals such as Sadashivanagar, Peddakodagall, and Mohammadnagar.

Stressing that the next eight to nine months remain crucial for water management, he asked farmers to assess storage levels in Nizam Sagar ayacut and local tanks before deciding on crop cultivation. For the upcoming Yasangi season, he advised reducing paddy acreage and switching to irrigated dry crops like sorghum, maize, chickpea, red gram, and groundnut, warning that growing water-intensive crops without adequate resources could lead to financial losses.

He also called for community-wide water conservation through soak pits, farm ponds, and artificial recharge structures to harvest rainwater and replenish groundwater tables. Under the Khet Bachao Abhiyaan, he encouraged soil health protection, reduced chemical usage, soil testing, crop rotation, scientific waste management, and organic farming to lower input costs, alongside exploring horticulture options such as oil palm and vegetables for additional income.

₹8,941 crore Yamuna rejuvenation related projects

Union Home Minister and Minister of Co-operation Amit Shah attended the inauguration and foundation-stone laying ceremony of projects worth ₹8,941 crore related to the rejuvenation of the Yamuna in Delhi.

In his address, Union Home Minister Amit Shah said that today the inauguration and foundation-stone laying of important projects worth nearly ₹9,000 crore for the purification of the Yamuna took place here. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, as soon as our party's government was formed in Delhi, called a major meeting and placed his vision of purifying the Yamuna before the Delhi Government and the Ministry of Home Affairs. In such a short time, we have achieved more than 40 percent success.

Amit Shah said that for the past 30 years, previous governments allowed Delhi's sewage water to be discharged into the Yamuna and dumped 2,000 tonnes of cow dung from dairies into the Yamuna every day. At one time, governments of the main opposition party's allies were in power in Uttar Pradesh and Haryana, and industrial waste water from Haryana as well as dirty water from Uttar Pradesh also flowed into the Yamuna. He said that today our party's governments are in power at the Centre and in Delhi, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh. Our governments in these four states have jointly prepared time-bound roadmaps for Uttar Pradesh, Haryana and Delhi, through which we will make the Yamuna clean by 2029. Shah said that we want to build a Delhi where homes are beautiful, water is pure, streets are clean, there are no mountains of garbage, and the Yamuna, once cleansed, can bestow its blessings on the people from here all the way to the Sangam. He said that Prime Minister Modi has taken up this work as an unwavering resolve, and today a very large part of that resolve is being fulfilled.

Union Home Minister said that 10 projects were inaugurated and 33 projects were initiated here today. He said that through the schemes started at a total cost of ₹8,941 crore, several lakh litres of water will be purified and flow into the Yamuna. Projects related to several areas of Delhi were inaugurated here today, and the foundation stones were also laid for the upgradation of existing STPs and the installation of new STPs. A decentralised STP pumping station has also been set up here today, and work has begun to connect sewer lines to households. We are taking forward sewer rehabilitation, tapping and drainage work. The Home Minister expressed confidence that we will purify the Yamuna before May 2029.

Amit Shah said that some political parties only indulge in the politics of excuses. Previous governments in Delhi used to make excuses that they did not get any help. He said that we have answers to every claim of theirs, but those answers will be given to them after their government in Punjab goes.

The previous government in Delhi did nothing except seize power in the name of protests and indulge in corruption. They played politics in the name of garbage mountains, but our government has worked to bring those garbage mountains down. In two years, gardens will come up in place of these garbage mountains.

The Rot at NIMS: How Institutional Corruption - Betrays Public Trust

(Capital Information) Hyderabad : Hospitals, meant to be sanctuaries for healing and public service, descending into dens of corruption is both tragic and unpardonable. Recent revelations surrounding the Nizam's Institute of Medical Sciences (NIMS)—a premier healthcare institution of renown—have shocked the public conscience. The arrest of Additional Medical Superintendent Lakshmi Bhaskar in a disproportionate assets case has opened a Pandora's box of administrative rot, revealing systemic decay at the highest levels.

In an era where lakhs of qualified and deserving youth struggle for years to secure a single government job, the sheer audacity of one family cornering seven permanent government positions defies belief.

From an office attendant and his wife, son, daughter-in-law, daughter, and son-in-law, down to his grandson—an entire clan was allegedly absorbed into permanent roles through corrupt patronage. This brazen nepotism under Lakshmi Bhaskar and his syndicate highlights the absolute breakdown of governance and accountability within the institute.

A Crucial Question: How did a coterie operate unchecked for years within a prestigious autonomous medical institution without triggering internal oversight or administrative alarms?

While the Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) investigation and the recent directive by the Chief Minister's Office (CMO) ordering a Vigilance and Enforcement probe into procurements and appointments between 2014 and 2023 are steps in the right direction, they must not stop merely at low-level fall guys. The investigation must thoroughly dig into the deep nexus, unmasking former higher-ups, advisors, and mentors who shielded these activities.

To restore public faith in NIMS, mere custody battles and temporary suspensions will not suffice. Every single recruitment irregularity and dubious procurement contract must be probed impartially, and those who plundered public trust must face the full force of the law. Purging the systemic corruption from its roots is the only way to rescue NIMS and preserve its historical dignity.

Cyberabad Police Alerts Public on Password Security; Urges Citizens to Stay Cyber Safe

(Capital Information) Cyberabad : Cyberabad Police has urged citizens to strengthen their online security by creating strong, unique passwords and adopting safe digital practices to protect their personal information, financial details and online accounts from cybercriminals. As part of its ongoing cyber safety awareness efforts, the police has highlighted the importance of password protection and cautioned people against negligence that could expose their accounts to cyber fraud.

Emphasizing that a strong password is the first line of defence against cybercrime, Cyberabad Police advised citizens to use passwords that combine letters, numbers and special characters. The police stressed that simple, predictable passwords can make online accounts more vulnerable to unauthorised access and urged users to avoid using easily identifiable personal information while creating passwords.

The police also recommended maintaining different passwords for different accounts, including email, banking, social media and other digital platforms. Using the same password across multiple accounts can increase the risk of compromise, as criminals who gain access to one account may attempt to access other services using the same credentials. Citizens were therefore advised to create strong and unique passwords for every important online account.

Cyberabad Police further advised people to update their passwords periodically and never share them with anyone. Citizens were cautioned against disclosing passwords in response to suspicious phone calls, messages, emails or online requests. They were also urged to remain alert to fraudulent communications in which cybercriminals impersonate bank representatives, customer care executives or other trusted entities to obtain confidential information.

The police emphasised the need to think carefully before sharing personal information online and to verify the authenticity of suspicious requests before responding. Citizens were encouraged to follow basic cyber hygiene practices, remain cautious while accessing digital platforms and take appropriate steps to safeguard their accounts against unauthorised access.

With digital transactions, online communication and internet-based services becoming an integral part of everyday life, the police stressed that cyber awareness and individual responsibility are essential to preventing online crimes. A few simple precautions, particularly the use of strong passwords and the protection of confidential credentials, can help reduce the risk of cyber fraud and financial loss.

Cyberabad Police also urged victims of cyber financial fraud to report incidents immediately by calling the national cybercrime helpline 1930. Prompt reporting can help authorities initiate the necessary response and improve the chances of taking timely action in financial fraud cases.

Reiterating its commitment to public safety, Cyberabad Police called upon citizens to remain alert, protect their passwords, verify before trusting online requests and adopt responsible digital practices. The police encouraged everyone to create strong, unique passwords, keep their accounts secure and remember that prevention and awareness are the first steps towards staying safe in the digital world.
